

APSI SPEAKER SERIES FALL 2016

KAISER KUO

Host of the Sinica Podcast
(former director of International Communications for Baidu)

China's Internet: A 20-year Retrospective

Wednesday, September 7, 2016 4:30 pm
The Ahmadiéh Family Conference Hall (J. H. Franklin Center, Room 240)

SETSUYA FUKUDA

Senior Researcher, Department of Research Planning and Coordination
National Institute of Population and Social Security Research

How to Get Gender Equity in Japan? Trends and the Latest Policy Initiatives

Monday, September 12, 2016 12:00 noon
Breedlove Room (Rubenstein Library, Room 349), Duke West Campus

NAMHEE LEE

Associate Professor, Asian Languages and Cultures
University of California – Los Angeles

The Politics of Remembering the Korean War: Blockbuster Films, History, and Social Memory

Wednesday, September 28, 2016 5:00 pm
Carpenter Room (Rubenstein Library, Room 249), Duke West Campus

JACK QIU

Professor, School of Journalism and Communication
The Chinese University of Hong Kong

Abolish Slavery in My Smartphone: Rethinking Foxconn, Capitalism, and Digital Labor

Tuesday, November 8, 2016 4:30 pm
The Ahmadiéh Family Conference Hall (J. H. Franklin Center, Room 240)

YOUNMI KIM

Assistant Professor, Department of the History of Art
Yale University

Ontological Status of Human Clothing Inside Buddhist Images

Thursday, November 17, 2016 4:00 pm
Carpenter Room (Rubenstein Library, Room 249), Duke West Campus

Asian | Pacific Studies Institute
Duke University

For more information call 684-2604 or visit us at www.duke.edu/APSI